Criteria For Selection

The first selection of collegiate All-Americans was made in 1957 and it has been done ever since by a special selection committee representing the intercollegiate Tennis Coaches' Association.

The criteria for selection: Season record (top 16 seeds in NCAA tournament); 2—quarterfinals or better in NCAA singles, doubles; 3—NCAA tournament performance of players seeded 17-32 in singles, doubles, team ladder position, team tournament standing, sportsmanship; 4—unseeded players in round of 16 singles, doubles quarterfinals; outstanding play in NCAA Team Tournament; top 10 in final ITCA singles poll.
